For this diagram I am assuming you can modify the content from the original post, the repost will need the user_id that is reposting, as well as the post_id. The time would be unique considering reposts happen at different times. the URL will also be unique.