A user can have 0 or more posts. The user_id is the primary key to the user because it is unique to each user. It is secondary in post for the same reason.

A post can have 0 or more reposts. The post id is unique and is used as the primary and secondary key for that reason.

A user can have 0 or more reposts. The repost Id is unique to each repost and is used as the primary key.